LITTLE GIRL DROWNS

Irene, 4-Year-Old Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Talbott, of Brooklyn, Loses Life.

CARRIED AWAY BY THE CURRENT IN THE IOWA RIVER

Was Ready First and Entered the Water in Advance of Rest of the Family.

Irene, the little four-year-old daughter of Jack Talbott, was drowned in the Iowa River last Monday afternoon. The family was camping on the river a little north of Brooklyn when the accident occurred. They were all going in swimming and Irene, being an enthusiastic little youngster, was ready first so she went in first. The current of the river was too swift for her and before anyone could reach her, she had gone down and was completely carried away by the current. They found the body a little later about ten rods down stream. It was impossible to do anything for her.

Irene was the granddaughter of Judge Talbott of Brooklyn. There are two small boys in the family and the mother is a brother of Jack Mathews who was in college here a year ago. Jack Talbott is a Brooklyn lawyer and a cousin of A. D. Talbott and Dr. E. F. Talbott.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon.
