

Heart Ailment Fatal For Alvin E. Busch

A heart ailment claimed the life of Alvin Busch, 59, Saturday afternoon in his home at Hartwick. Mr. Busch had arrived home earlier the same day from the Marengo Memorial hospital where he had been admitted October 4 after suffering a heart attack. His body was discovered about 3:30 by his sister, Mrs. Harold Gray of Malcom.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock at the Hartwick Congregational church with the Rev. Robert Cutbirth officiating. Mrs. Cutbirth was organist.

Interment was in the I.O.O.F. cemetery at Brooklyn with the following serving as pallbearers: Fred Bees, Albert Voelkel, Russell Gabriel, Calvin Korns, Oscar Messerli and Graeme Kenyon. Mr. and Mrs. George Williams were in charge of flowers.

Alvin E. Busch, son of Ernest and Velma White Busch, was born August 22, 1906, northwest of Brooklyn. He attended the rural school in the vicinity and was baptised in the Madison Christian church where he remained a member until leaving the community.

June 28, 1933, he was married to Tillie Possehl in the home of her parents near Hartwick. One son, Lavern, was born to the couple.

After farming a few years, he moved into Hartwick where he worked as a repairman of equipment, supervised the Hartwick street light system and had driven a school bus for over 15 years. After coming to the Hartwick community he had transferred his membership to the Hartwick Congregation church.

Survivors include his wife and son, both of Hartwick; three sisters, Mrs. Harold (Clara) Gray of Malcom, Mrs. William (Ada) Schnell of Dy-sart and Mrs. Elver (Velma) Roudabush of Brooklyn. He also leaves a sister-in-law, Mrs. Harry (Irene) Busch of Brooklyn, two nieces and two nephews.