chicken buyer for Reed, had been drowned in Kansas. This is a mistake, as he has been heard from and is at his home in Williamsburg.

—Mrs. Fred Carr died of Bright's disease in Montezuma Sunday at five o'clock p. m. The many friends of Mr. Carr sympathize with him in his sorrow. The burial was at Montezuma. The Republican speaks as follows of the deceased woman: "She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Riley of Chicago, and was born in Indianapolis, Indiana, February 22, 1872, and at the time of her death was 26 years, 1 month and 11 days old. In July, 1895, she was married to Mr. Fred Carr and came with him to make her home among our people and had resided here nearly three years. She came among us as a stranger, but her genial, pleasant manner soon made her a social favorite and she numbered among her friends all with whom she became acquainted. She presided over a happy home and the sympathy of all our people goes out to the husband so sadly bereft of a loving companion. The funeral took place from the J. W. Carr home Tuesday afternoon, Rev. E. C. Brooks of the M. E. Church conducting a short service. Her father and mother and a married sister and husband were present at the funeral."
