

7-7 OBITUARY. 1905

MRS. C. G. DAVIS.

On last Monday at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Davis at 1032 West St., occurred the services over the body of Mrs. Charles G. Davis, whose remains were brought here for interment from Denver where death occurred June 29 of tuberculosis. The services were conducted by the Rev. J. M. McClelland and the large number of former friends who gathered at the house was a testimonial to the love and esteem in which the deceased was held by her friends here.

Mary Cornelia Baggs was born at Newton on October 28, 1878 and when a young girl removed with her father, J. C. Baggs, to this city where she graduated from the Grinnell High School in 1897 and met Charles G. Davis to whom she was united in marriage three years later.

Shortly after this they moved to Colorado where she has been in failing health which careful attendance and the climate would not improve and she passed peacefully away June 29 at her home in Denver.

Besides the sorrowing husband and a little son, to whom she was ever a loving wife and kind mother, she leaves her father, J. C. Baggs of Newton, a sister, Mrs. Joe Duffin of Des Moines, and a brother, Arthur Baggs of Pueblo, Colo., all of whom were present at the funeral.

Her pleasant manner and her kind ways made a large number of friends among her acquaintances when she was a school girl here, whose sympathies are extended to the sorrowing family in their sad loss of one so dear to them all.
