Knudt Hendrickson Died Monday

Many friends are saddened to learn of the death of Knudt Hendrickson, retired farmer, who died last night at 8:40 o'clock following a brief struggle with the flu and pneumonia. He is survived by his wife, Rachel, and by one son, Lester J. Hendrickson.

Mr. Hendrickson was born in Norway and came to this country 42 years ago. He was sixty years of age at the time of his death. For many years he has been farming north of town and retired from active service only a short time ago when he moved into the property on Ninth Avenue and Ann street formerly owned by Al Hamilton.
