

Blanche Stewart services held

(Harry)

Blanche E. Stewart, 92, of Gilman died on Monday, July 5, in the home of Elizabeth Fanton, where she had lived for six years. Mrs. Stewart had been ill for eight months.

Services for Blanche Stewart were held in the Gilman Community Church at 2 p.m. yesterday (Wednesday) with the Rev. Donald Britt officiating. Burial was in Prairie View Cemetery in Gilman.

She was born on May 6, 1884, near Plainview, Neb. Her parents were George G. and Anna M. Mooney Stone. She received her primary education in Pierce County, Neb. She moved to Gilman when she was 11 to live with her aunt after her mother's death and graduated from Gilman High School. She taught in the county's rural schools for four years.

She married Harry D. Stewart in 1906 and they lived in Gilman, where they owned and operated an auto business. Mr. Stewart died in 1963.

Also preceding her in death were four sisters and two brothers. There are no immediate survivors.
