

61-4 OBITUARY 1950
Glen Earl Teraberry

Glen Earl Teraberry, son of Jacob Teraberry and Sarah Leanora Judd Teraberry, was born on the family farm north of Malcom, on Jan. 3, 1886. He died on Nov. 4, at St. Francis hospital in Grinnell.

His early education was received in the rural school, Sheridan District No. 7. He attended Malcom high school for one year and transferred to the Grinnell Academy from which he was graduated in 1907. While at the academy, he took some courses in Grinnell college.

On June 4, 1912, he was married to Hazel Bowling of Maquoketa. They lived on the farm until 1934, when they moved to Malcom.

He served for many years on the school board, both in the country and in town. He was a member of the Masonic Order of Malcom.

His thoughtfulness of others, his kindly sympathetic attitude, and his happy, genial disposition will be greatly missed by his wife, ten grandchildren and by his five sons and their wives--Donald of Grinnell; Max of Los Angeles; Glen, Jr., of Muscatine; Richard of Des Moines; and Philip of Denver.

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon, Nov. 6, at the Presbyterian church in Malcom. He was buried in the family lot in Ivy Hill Cemetery. Services were conducted by the Rev. James Fraser. Music was furnished by Mrs. Gordon Farley and Loring Rohr. The casketbearers were Paul Thomson, Donald Baustian, George Baustian, Ronald Baltisberger, Royce Hollman, and Edward Hollman. Mrs. Bennie Baustian and Miss Edna Vogel were in charge of the flowers.

Relatives who attended from out of town besides the five sons, were Mrs. Teraberry's mother, Mrs. Olive Shattuck of Rock Island, Ill., Mr. and Mrs.
