Mrs. Marie Williams, 90, of Brooklyn died Friday (Apr. 5) in the Brookhaven Nursing Home, where she had been a patient since 1969. Services for Mrs. Williams were held at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Brooklyn Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. Richard Menzel officiating. Burial was in the I.O.O.F. Cemetery, with the Nevenhoven Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

The daughter of John and Eliza Evans Wilde, she was born Aug. 24, 1883, in England. She received her education in England and came to the U.S. in 1913.

She was married to Richard D. Williams in Grinnell on Jan. 2, 1917.

Mrs. Williams was a member of the Episcopal Church, later transferring her membership to the Brooklyn United Presbyterian Church. In 1965 she became a resident of the Presbyterian Home in Ackley, where she lived until 1969 when she entered Brookhaven Nursing Home.

Survivors include two daughters, Evelyn Williams of Ackley and Mrs. Irvin (Agnes) Nervig of Brooklyn, and two grandchildren, Carolyn and James Nervig. She was preceded in death by her parents, her husband, two brothers and two sisters.
