Michael Price services held

A Brooklyn native, Michael Price, 29, died Saturday evening in the verticle shaft of a cave near Luana in Northeast Iowa. Also dead is the expedition leader, Katherine L. McCluskey (Mrs. Karl DeLong) of Grinnell. Five Grinnell College students lived.

The college expedition Feb. 28 was caught by a surface snow storm and the melting snow which cascaded into the 112-foot verticle entrance shaft of Miller's cave. Three students made it out before Price and Mrs. DeLong were drenched with freezing water on their way out. They died on their ropes hours before rescuers reached them.

The remaining two college cave explorers were rescued from the dark, wet hole in the early hours of Sunday morning.

Price was the son of Mrs. Betty Price and the late Robert
