She was born in Chicago, Ill., on Oct. 12, 1933, the eldest of four children of Leonard and Ellen Webb. She graduated high school from Saints Peter and Paul Catholic School in Chicago in 1952. Her first job was as an elevator operator at the Conrad-Hilton Hotel in Chicago, and she later worked for Publisher's Development Corporation, also in Chicago. She married James "Jim" Garrison of Kearney, Neb., at Saints Peter and Paul Catholic Church in Chicago in 1955. They started their family in their first home in Kearney, moved to Grinnell in 1969, and later lived in rural Toledo and ultimately in Saylorville Township, Ankeny.

She is survived by her sisters Eileen Piller of Strasburg, Colo., and Linda Albright of Concord, NC; daughters Pamela Ellen Talley of Prairie City and Beth Ann McPherson of Earlham, and son, Anthony James Garrison of Madrid, Iowa; four grandchildren; six great grandchildren; and other extended family.

She was preceded in death by her parents; brother, John Webb; husband, Jim Garrison; and one grandson.
