The pall bearers were: William Malcolm of Deep River, Alvin Mann of Malcolm, Earl Malcolm and son, Wesley, Charles Zirbel and L. E. Thorn.

Mrs. Jones served as county recorder for three terms, going into office in 1906. She was the first woman to occupy any court house office. Her work there was excellent and she handled the office with skill and intelligence. For many years she taught school in the county and was known as a good instructor. Always interested in the Republican party, Mrs. Jones took an active part in its meetings and was one of the first committeewomen for Jackson township. In addition to this she served long and well on the park commission and did much toward its success.
