

... JULY 12, 1962

Funeral Services
For George Loving
Sunday Morning

Funeral services for George Loving, retired Barnes City farmer and veteran of World War I, were conducted by the Rev. William Morehouse at 11 a. m. Sunday at the Steffy Funeral home. Mrs. William Landstrum played the organ selections.

Interment was in the Barnes City cemetery following services by the Barnes City American Legion post. Casket bearers were Robert and Scott De Hoedt, William Landstrum, William Walston, James Gilliam and Gale Riggs.

George, son of William and Clarice Loving, was born near Kirksville, Mo., Mar. 21, 1894, and died at the Veterans hospital, in Iowa City, July 4 at 68 years of age.

He moved with his family to the Barnes City community in 1910.

On Feb. 24, 1920, he was united in marriage with Ruby Malin, and to this union, four children were born. A daughter, Shirley Ann, died in 1948. Their entire married life has been spent near Barnes City, about two years ago, they retired and moved into Barnes City.

Mr. Loving was a veteran of World War I, having served several months in France.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Ruth Fieseler and Mrs. Clarice Sherbon, both of California, and a son, Warren, Barnes City; three grandchildren and one great grandson; also a sister, Mrs. Annie McMains, and a brother, Floyd Loving, both of New Sharon, other relatives and many friends.