The family lived in Illinois until after the death of her father, when her mother and six children, of whom she was the youngest, a child of six years, moved to Iowa.

At an early age she became a Christian and remained faithful to her Lord and her church until the end. She was in her place in the Sabbath school and church on the day before her death.

She was married to Andrew McCormick, a native of County Down, Ireland, November 1, 1899, and with the exception of the first year of their marriage spent in Chicago, lived the entire time on the farm where she resided at the time of her death.

She was preceded in death by her father and mother; three sisters: Mrs. Susanna McGonigal, Mrs. Ella Cummings and Mrs. Mary McCormick; and one brother, N. James Donnan.

She leaves to mourn her passing her husband and three sons, William E., James A. and Eugene; a sister, Elizabeth N. Donnan, and a host of nieces, nephews and friends, who have lost a loving aunt and faithful friend.
