

Richard McMahon

Richard "Dick" E. McMahon, 68, of Kellogg died of a heart attack Friday, Dec. 14, at his home.

The Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated Wednesday at Sacred Heart Church in Newton, with the Rev. Phillip Cardenzano officiating. Burial was at Newton Memorial Park Cemetery, with the Reese Funeral Home of Newton in charge of arrangements.

275013 son of Joseph and McMahon was born June 10, 1933, in Newton. He was a graduate of Newton High School.

He was married to Louise Gooding in 1956 and was married to Karen Cope of Grinnell Dec. 6, 1996.

He lived in Newton and Grinnell and had recently moved to Kellogg.

Mr. McMahon was a salesman for a number of insurance companies. He was a member of the Catholic Church and the Grinnell Eagles and Elks lodges. He served in the U.S. Army in the 1950s.

Surviving are his wife, Karen; one daughter, Krisan Partridge of Eagan, Minn.; three stepsons, Gerry Trotter of Newton, Corey Cope of Grinnell and Scott Cope of Bloomfield; seven grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his parents; his first wife, Louise; and one brother, Marvin.

A memorial has been established in his name.

H-R Dec. 20, 2001