

Mrs. J. B. O'Harra Dies In Brooklyn

(From The Brooklyn Chronicle)
Miss Celia Smith, daughter of Marshall and Mary Jane Smith, was born in Pickaway county, Ohio, Oct. 15, 1853, and passed away at her home in Brooklyn, Pa., Oct. 17, 1923, at the age of 50 years and two days.

While in Ohio she was married to James B. O'Harra, and the couple made their home on a farm near Harrisburg. To this union eight children were born, seven of whom survive, John L. of Tama; Nicholas B. of Columbus, O.; William S. of Auburn, Neb.; Robert M. of Iowa City; Thomas E. of Grinnell; Mrs. Lizzie Williams and Vernice of Brooklyn. The oldest daughter, Mrs. Maggie Davis, passed away thirteen years ago. Mr. O'Harra preceded his wife in death ten years ago.

Mrs. O'Harra also raised an adopted daughter, Mable Parker, also of Brooklyn. Twenty-three grandchildren, eleven great grandchildren, two half brothers, Joe and Hays Smith of Ohio; four half sisters, Mrs. Harry Bailey and Mrs. Ross Timmons of Ohio; Mrs. William Saylor of Montezuma, and Mrs. Fred Read of Brooklyn, besides a host of friends, also survive.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Harra and family came to Iowa in 1903 and since have made their home in and around Brooklyn.

She was united with the First Methodist church in Five Points, O., of which she was a faithful member.

Rev. Clem Berdine of West Liberty had charge of the services. Burial was at the I. O. O. F. cemetery.

Pallbearers were six grandsons: Forrest O'Harra, James O'Harra, Clyde O'Harra, Marshall O'Harra, Johnnie O'Harra and Smith Davis.

James B.