

test A can go. 8-18-1905
—Adam Schmidt died at the home of hisson-in-law, John Watson, known as the old Chas. Rooknan farm, seven miles north east of this city, last Tuesday evening of dropsy. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon at the German Lutheran church in Malcom township and was conducted by the Rev. G. Reinsch. The body was buried in the cemetery at that place. The deceased was fifty two years old, lacking but a few days, and was one of those sturdy, honest and thrifty citizens which the German land has contributed to America and who have been such a valuable class of citizens in the new world. He was industrious and respected by those who knew him as a good and useful man.